Let's Go To Russia!

WORLD NEWS

Ottawa, November 20. — Canada has renewed her Trade Pact with New Zealand with, however, extensive revision on Canadian automobiles and parts. The tariff on assembled motor vehicles has been increased in order to encourage the importation of separate parts which will be assembled in the country.

Geneva, November 20. — Ethiopia informed the League today that she will refuse to consider any peace settlement by which she would lose territory. In a note to the League offices, she claimed that Italy could have liberated them all in such a short time.

New York, November 20. — Eight hours after setting out on his second attempt to fly over Antarctica, word was received from Lincoln Ellsworth that his fuel gauge had broken. In the absence of further details, it was assumed that he would turn back. Ellsworth's pilot is a Canadian, Hollick-Kenyon, of Winnipeg, formerly with the Canadian Airways.

London, November 20. — Earl Jellicoe, Commander of the British Grand Fleet at Jutland, the only major naval battle of the Great War, died tonight after a short illness. Earl Beatty, Admiral of the Fleet, said that he epitomized all the highest ideals of the British Navy, and his death was a loss to the Empire. Earl Jellicoe's death at 75, recalls the controversy which has centred about the Battle of Jutland since 1916.

Peiping, November 20. — Plans for the formation of an autonomous state in North China collapsed today and will probably be delayed indefinitely. This move is due to a conference between Chinese and Japanese high officials at which an accord was reached and also because Japan fears international complications if she moves too suddenly. The Japanese Army is reported to be irked by this move and are impatient to advance with their plan for domination.

Rome, November 20. — No replies to Italy's notes of protest against sanctions have yet been received, but the majority are expected before the week-end. It is not expected that there will be any very favourable replies, but the notes are awaited to see to what extent they will be modelled on the British answer. It is believed that peace negotiations must await further developments in Africa.

Quebec, November 20. — A party of British and Irish officials arrived here today to discuss the initiation of a Transatlantic Aerial service with Canadian government officials. The party consists of private experts and Government officials, but the conference will be as between the two governments. No definite information was proffered, but it is expected that developments will begin within a short time.

Mystery Thriller To Be Produced By Players' Club

Play Goes By Boards at Moyse Hall Dec. 12, 13, 14

A GENERAL meeting of the Players' Club was held in the McGill Union yesterday afternoon. The progress of the club to date was reviewed and a complete plan of the coming production discussed. The general opinion was that the club should not rest on the reputation gained by former outstanding productions, but every effort should be made to bring "Crime at Blossoms" up to the level of such box office successes as "Autumn Crocus," "The Devil's Disciple" and "Rope."

"Crime at Blossoms" was written by Mordaunt Shair who is also the author of "The Green Bay Tree." It is no ordinary mystery thriller. It deals with the Merrymans, an improvident couple who rent their country house "Blossoms," which, during their absence becomes the scene of a mysterious murder. Mrs. Merrymans turns the cottage into a side show, and the development of the plot consists of a study of the effect of the murder on her character as well as the effect of her actions on her husband and all the people connected with the actual murder.

"Crime at Blossoms" has been successfully produced in Canada in recent years, once by the Queen's University Faculty Players with a cast headed by Principal Fyfe, also by the Ottawa Little Theatre. The Poster Competition which was announced last week is still going on. All students who wish to attempt a pictorial representation of the outstanding features of the play must hand in efforts by November 30th. "Crime at Blossoms" will be staged at Moyse Hall on December 12th, 13th and 14th. The price of admission for the general public will be 75c, but there will be a special student rate of 55c.

Unanimous Decision of Judges Upholds Arguments of Affirmative

Germany Will Cause International War Claims Affirmative

McGILL Debating Team bowed to representatives of the Western Universities who successfully upheld the affirmative of the argument Resolved that the House would rather live in present day Russia than in present day Germany. The decision of the Judges was unanimous. The western universities were represented by John R. Gould of Columbia University and Maurice Western of the University of Saskatchewan. The McGill debaters were Alfred Pick and Henry Schaffhausen. Melbourne Dole, President of the Debating Union, was in the chair. Principal Morgan attended the debate.

Comparisons Drawn
"The populace of Russia today has peace, prosperity and a higher standard of living to look forward to, whereas the German people can only hope for an international war, when they cannot hope to win," opened Mr. Gould for the affirmative. He went on to point out that today in Russia women are given equal status with the men; that, contrary to general beliefs, salaries in Russia were graded, the professional man being paid the higher salary. The people of Russia undergo privation in order to further national production, a policy which will bring abundance in the future. The Germans, on the other hand, are undergoing privation to build an expensive army and support a few ruling capitalists.

"In Russia there is a complete lack of home life, religion, and everything else that does not constitute a strict materialistic idealism," stated Mr. Pick for the negative. He went on to say: "In Russia religion is disgraced by debased mockery and the fact that clergymen are defrocked. Also that the proletariat, a minority, were the ruling class by means of an unfair enfranchisement. The unfortunate, formerly of the nobility, the wealthy and the religious, are ruthlessly deprived of all means by which the average Russian obtains his livelihood. Meat, eggs, clothing, shoes, paper, and other necessities to the German people, are unheard of luxuries to the Russian. Their emancipation of womanhood is only the industrialization of the female sex, and the debasing of marriage and home life. The policy towards women in Germany is so favourably regarded by them that they are more enthusiastic supporters of the Hitler regime than are the men."

"The Nazi government stands for war, and nothing breaks up the home more than war," stated Mr. Western in refutation of the negative argument. He added that, on January first of this year, the franchise was granted to the peasantry in Russia. This class outnumbered the Proletariat five to one, and thus the present system was shown to have the support of the majority of the people. Sovietism took Russia with an overpowering urge of approval. Nazism, however, has been pressed down on the people by overpowering forces of a group of capitalists.

Russia Wants Peace
The desire for peace by Russia was made obvious by her offer to abolish arms completely in all countries. When this was refused she offered to reduce proportionately the arms of all countries, and upon refusal of this offer, she left open an offer for the discussion of any views which might tend to further the cause of peace.

Mr. Schaffhausen, the last speaker for the negative, pointed out that whereas the policies of Germany were open and above-board, those of Russia could not be depended upon. Recently Russia made a treaty with the U.S.A. one of the agreements of which was that Russia would refrain from spreading political propaganda in the U.S. Very shortly afterwards, at a meeting of the Third International, in Moscow, seven members from the U.S. explained the manner in which they fomented a series of strikes throughout the country. Whereas in Germany the counter-revolution after the "Putsch" involved the death of fifty men, the counter-revolution in Russia caused the death of eight hundred thousand men.

Mr. Gould, after a short rebuttal, closed the debate with this statement to the audience, "The decision must be made, as to whether you would rather live in a country headed for war and disaster or one whose policies tend to produce peace and in the near future, prosperity."

Governor-General Will Visit McGill Coming Saturday

Will Receive Honorary Degree of Doctor of Laws

JOHN BUCHAN, Lord Tweedsmuir, newly installed Governor-General of Canada will officially visit McGill University for the first time this coming Saturday. There will be a special convocation ceremony held in Moyse Hall at three o'clock in the afternoon at which His Excellency will be vested with the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws as a token of this University's recognition of his literary achievements.

As Governor-General of Canada, Lord Tweedsmuir also occupies the position of Official Visitor to the University, for McGill is under royal patronage. His Excellency will be installed in that office at the same ceremony. Principal Morgan will deliver the installation address.

Greetings have been sent to His Excellency by Chancellor Beatty on behalf of the Board of Governors inviting Lord and Lady Tweedsmuir to Saturday's service. A courteous reply was received thanking the University for the kind words of welcome.

Although Lord Tweedsmuir is better known in Canada for his literary works, many of which have dealt with our country, he is a high-ranking diplomat and Statesman. He was once secretary to the Governor of South Africa and in more recent days Member of Parliament in Great Britain for the Scottish Universities. As the Board of Governors mentioned in their welcoming letter Lord Tweedsmuir is especially suited for the office of Visitor because of his close connection with university life in his native country. Much of his material for novels was obtained in his service as Director of Information during the World War.

Philosophical Club Probes Justice Of Arts Censorship

WITH Morton Godin and Allan Marcus opening the argument on "Is Censorship of the Arts Justified," the informal meeting of the Philosophical Society will get under way tonight at 8.15 in Strathcona Hall.

These meetings are not restricted to philosophy students but aim at giving an opportunity to those interested, to express their own opinions about current topics. Various views will be presented on the injustice of censorship.

Shelford To Give Somerville Lecture

The Somerville lecture for 1935 is to be delivered in Moyse Hall this Friday evening by Professor V. E. Shelford of the Department of Animal Ecology, University of Illinois. He has chosen as his subject "Nature versus Technology, Saving Wild Life for Science."

As the speaker is a world authority on wild life in all its forms, his lecture should be of profound interest to all. Professor Shelford is well known as an ecologist, and his researches in field zoology are outstanding. His book on "Animal Communities in Temperate America" is classical and has inspired numerous workers in many branches of ecology. The physiology of organisms, the various phenomena associated with their behaviour and the relationships of animal communities to the various types of plant communities which form their environment, are set forth with a wealth of illustrative examples. Professor Shelford's work on the ecology of aquatic animals, marine communities, fluctuations in animal populations and life-histories and colour patterns of tiger beetles are of great interest and value.

MONTREAL HIGH OLD BOYS

Report Of Union Committee Shows Definite Uptrend

Statement Issued For Month of October Indicates Financial Gain

CAFETERIA AHEAD

Plans For Next Few Weeks Outlined by Executive

FOLLOWING last year's policy the Union House Committee last night published a monthly report for October. It is felt by the Union House Committee that the Undergraduates should take an active interest in the Union and to that end plans to publish financial statements monthly in order that the students may be kept in touch with their club.

It was also pointed out by the House Committee that suggestions are always welcome and it wishes the students to realize that the Union is their club and is run for their convenience.

Report For October

The Month of October shows the following receipts collected from the various departments of the Union.

	1933	1934	1935
Tuck Shop	$245.06	$276.95	$288.05
Billiard Room	126.20	256.97	157.30
Cafeteria	90.97	116.34	180.73
	$462.23	$650.26	$626.08

"During the month of October over 40 meetings of various college organizations were held in the Union. A definite attempt has been made on the part of the Committee to increase the number of class and undergraduate society lunches and dinners held in the building."

"The Union held three tea dances this year and so far has held one informal. Other informals will be held if there seems sufficient demand. The Freshman dinners and dance were held on October 28th, over 350 Freshmen and Freshettes attending. The Freshman Pep Rally was held earlier in the month and was opened by Principal Morgan. There were over three hundred students at this function. All freshman activities sponsored by the Union this year were attended by more Freshmen than the corresponding functions in former years."

"The business in the cafeteria has been doubled in the course of the last two years. This has led to an increase in the use of meal cards, which mean a saving of 10 per cent to users. The sale of meal cards has been increased owing to the policy of making free drawings for every thirty cards sold and by giving any person a free card who buys twenty during the course of the season. The price of the dinner at night has been decreased from forty cents to thirty-five cents. This decrease in price has been warranted by the increased use of the cafeteria at night."

"This year the Committee has subscribed to over 30 magazines from Canada, England and the United States. These magazines are available in the Reading Room. The papers from the leading Canadian cities are placed in the hall on the second floor."

"From today on the price in the Pool and Billiard Room at the Union will be 45 cents an hour or 25 cents for half an hour. This change in price has been decided upon after a week of experimenting with the price in this department. It is hoped that this decrease in the rate will mean an increase in the number of people using the facilities offered and not just an increase in the amount of time spent in the Pool room by a limited few."

"The Committee is considering plans for a Christmas Dinner for all the Union's regular patrons and further details will be published as soon as available."

"The Union House Committee wishes to point out to all members of the Union that the Club is being run for their convenience and any comments or constructive criticism will be appreciated."

Respectfully submitted, ROBERT MACDUFF, Secretary.
JOHN H. McDONALD, President.

Group Discusses Results Of Mass Purchase Inquiry

Gross and Kleiner Address Political Economy Club Tonight

"SOME Recommendations of the Price Spreads Commission" are to be discussed this evening at the second meeting this year of the Political Economy Club. The meeting will take place in the smoking room of the Arts building and will commence at 8.15 p.m. Clarence Gross, and George Kleiner are to deliver the two papers. Both speakers are 4th year honour students in economics.

The suggestions embodied in the report, what has already been done, and what may yet be done in this respect will be discussed. The Hon. H. H. Stevens was the instigator and first chairman of this commission, and although he was later replaced, his outspoken attacks on the unfair methods of "big business" aroused great interest. It is now evident that Canadian economy is in great need of reconstruction. The growing concentration of economic power in Canada and its exploitation of employees and the destruction of individual enterprise underlies the findings of the Royal Commission.

Gross will examine the charge that "mass buying" is the cause of the muddled state of our economy. He will also deal with the question of high tariffs and their effect on competition as well as generalize on the various trends of the investigation.

Kleiner will point out how the theories of social planning have been practised by the commission and the general characteristics of Canadian economy. The application of these theories under various conditions will be fully analyzed.

Dr. T. Z. Koo Speaks at S.C.M. Supper Meeting Tonight

Principal Morgan to Welcome Noted Student Leader to McGill

THE monthly supper meeting of the Student Christian Movement, first event in the intensive program planned for Dr. T. Z. Koo's six-day visit to Montreal, will be held tonight in Strathcona Hall, commencing at 8 o'clock. The affair, which will be in the nature of a buffet supper, will be featured by an address on "Re-interpreting Religion" by the noted Oriental visitor. Principal Morgan will be present to welcome Dr. Koo and to take part in his first S.C.M. function at McGill.

Arrived Last Night

Dr. Koo arrived from Kingston last night. When interviewed by telephone at a late hour, he said he had received a fine reception in all the colleges he has visited during his stay in Canada. Regarding the delaying of the autonomy of North China, "The situation has gone just as I expected it would," he said. During the past two weeks the well-known student worker has been speaking at various universities and colleges in Ontario, including a week's stay at Toronto and will depart for the Maritimes early next week.

Tonight's meeting, which will be held in the Main Hall of the S.C.M. headquarters, will be under the chairmanship of Jean Hunter, president of the Movement. Among those present will be the Principal and Mrs. Morgan, the Misses Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Brooks, Dr. and Mrs. R. B. Y. Scott, Dr. and Mrs. J. S. Allen, Dr. and Mrs. Ramsay, and many other graduates and friends of the Movement. The supper committee announces that student tickets are still available at Strathcona Hall at 35 cents. Those wishing to come for the program only, will be admitted at about seven o'clock for 10 cents.

Conference for Week-End
Other events in the week-end program planned for Dr. Koo's visit include an over-night conference on Saturday and Sunday at the Edgewater Beach Hotel, Pointe Claire. The visitor will deliver two addresses on the conference topic, "Vital Religion and the Student," and will also lead a forum discussion on Sunday afternoon. On Sunday evening he will give the sermon at the Student Chapel Service in Divinity Hall and, following the service, will talk on Chinese music at Open House, in Strathcona Hall. This talk will be illustrated with selections on his famous flute.

Reports from the Ontario centres which Dr. Koo has just visited, indicate that the visitor has made a great impression. At Toronto he spoke before a large gathering in Convocation Hall on "The Contribution of Christianity to China," outlining also the messages of Confucianism and Buddhism. He again spoke on the impact of Christianity upon the Chinese conceptions of God, at Kingston, and on "The International Situation in the Far East" at the Queen's Convocation Hall.

Peace Organization To Include Schools

Speakers Will Address Students in All Parts of Island

The Student Peace Movement is pursuing plans to organize all the high schools. A meeting of the representatives from the high schools of Montreal has already been called, and speakers from McGill will shortly address assemblies in the different schools.

Almost one hundred students have already indicated their intention of participating in the Discussion Groups which will be held for one hour every two weeks. These groups are being held on different days and at varying times so that all who are interested may attend one of the groups. The discussion will be led by prominent students, whose names will be announced in a later issue of the Daily. The aim of these discussion groups is to probe into the causes of armed conflicts, and the trends toward them, particularly those which concern students. Among the subjects tabled for discussion are: The armament business; war preparations in Canada; problems of racial and national antagonisms; peaceful peace movements in Canada and abroad; and the League of Nations as an instrument for peace.

All students who would like to enroll in one of these groups should get in touch with one of the members of the Executive, or leave a note with Bill Gentleman stating the day they prefer to come.

The I.O.D.E. Competition

RECENTLY there appeared in the "Daily" a notice authorized by the Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire in which was offered a prize of $50.00 to the winner of a short-story competition being sponsored by that organization. That such an influential body takes an interest in the fostering of creative writing in the Dominion is in itself a commendable thing, but anyone interested in the subject from an artistic viewpoint will see in the rules which govern the competition sufficient reason to condemn on literary grounds.

One rule was worded thus: "While other subjects are not debarred, stories dealing with Canadian life are preferred.
This does not mean mere perfunctory reference to a Canadian background. The particular Canadian setting chosen must be vital to the treatment of the subject." Why such a preposterous rule should be laid down it is difficult to imagine. Why is the "Canadian life" to be preferred?
And why does the setting have to be "vital" to the treatment of the subject?
It is a mistake to think that the "Canadian life" is a fitter subject for fiction than others; as it is also a mistake to think that no short stories can be written without a "vital" setting.

Why can a short story not be judged solely on its merits as a short story written by an individual creative writer, and not on its value as a parochial or national story written by someone with a calculating eye on the rules? It is enough to make all honest and conscientious young writers who value the fictional medium of the short story as an art to give up any wish to compete under such rules.

We must ruefully come to the conclusion that such a competition, held at a time when there is ample opportunity for fostering true creative writing in Canada, is to be deplored. The mental image of the I.O.D.E. hen hatching out a brood of chauvinistic scribblers is as ludicrous as it is lamentable.

The Union Report

WHEN the report of the Union House Committee for the first month of the year is analyzed one or two things will immediately impress the average student.
In the first place the remarkable gain of 100% in the Cafeteria Business will need explanation. The business in this, perhaps the most important branch of the institution, is fairly indicative of the general trend throughout the building. The business here has been built up and increased through the cooperation of the Caterer and the House Committee, and a definite drive on the part of the House Committee to increase the numbers of lunches and dinners served to class and undergraduate organizations.

This has been done in two ways. The use of meal cards, and therefore regular customers, has been increased through advertising and the special drawings made for the benefit of these people. The number of special lunches served in the Grill Room has been boosted by the simple method of inviting the various class and society officers to the building for a sample meal.

The second important note in the monthly report is the fact that the Freshmen activities have been attended by a larger number than ever before. This is good because it shows that the Freshmen as a class are active and it means that they realize the importance of the Union to McGill. The other activities of the Union are outlined in the report found elsewhere in this issue.

May we call attention to one or two of the planned features for the remainder of the season. It is planned by the Committee to fix the price of the Billiard tables at forty-five cents an hour. By doing this the Union is reducing its prices below the average city Billiard Table rates. It is to be hoped that this reduction in prices will mean an increased use of these tables.
This method has been tried in the Cafeteria, where the price of the evening meal has been reduced from forty cents to thirty-five cents — in this case the reduction has warranted itself — let us hope it will again.

The Union, apparently, plans to hold

The BOOK SHELF

LA TECHNIQUE DE L'EXPORTATION, by Dr. Henry Laureys, pp. 327. Editions Albert Levesque, Montreal, $1.25.

DR. HENRY LAUREYS of the School for Higher Commercial Studies in Montreal has already earned for himself a definite place in the field of Canadian economics, especially on the subject of Canada's foreign trade has he distinguished himself. He has written many books on the subject, including "Le commerce extérieur du Canada" (1922); "La Conquête des Marchés Extérieurs" (1927); and his classic "The Foreign Trade of Canada" (1929).
This latter has undoubtedly been one of the best books ever written on the subject. The author's purpose in this, his latest venture in the same field, "La Technique de l'Exportation," is to rearrange his material in the light of developments of the past six years, and to present in a more modest and elementary volume the main theses which he presented in "La conquête des marchés extérieurs."

The disastrous decline in the quantity and value of world trade in the past six years has laid especially on Canada, which is one of the largest exporting nations in the world. Canada, as is well known, is a staple exporting nation, and its entire economy is based on its ability to sell its wheat, newsprint, flour and other staples in the markets of the world. This is essential to enable Canada to settle its balance of international indebtedness, and at the same time to provide a large part of its population with adequate purchasing power. A decline in the value of its exports has serious repercussions on the entire economy, as the experience of the past six years has amply proved. Rigidities inherent in our economy, as our huge burden of debt, public, private and corporate, interest rates, tariff and freight rates, have weighed especially heavily on Canada since the curtailment of our national income, due largely to the decline of our export trade. In view of these facts, the book is a timely one.

The author has made this book a very practical handbook of how exports and imports are financed, laying stress on the different forms and credit instruments peculiar to different countries. How shipments abroad are made, what publicity and advertisement is carried on, what forms of shipping documents are employed, when it is most advantageous to ship, the reactions of exchange rates—these and a host of other information is found within the covers of this book. Dr. Laureys is at all times interesting, even though the subject is one which is technical and often complex. The author, too, goes out of his way to make a difficult subject clear and lucid—an accomplishment which is highly laudable in view of the many tracts published on the subject of late which have definitely confused the reader.

In view of its highly practical nature, the book should prove useful to students, businessmen, exporters and would-be exporters. It is a veritable mine of information.

The author deplores the present tendency to self-sufficiency and government intervention and restriction, which he contends has completely overthrown the international economy and has made for a misdirection of productive effort. Canada, he feels, may have to rearrange its external economy in order to adjust itself to these changed world conditions. Despite this, the author still has optimistic hopes of a lessening of these restrictions and a further expansion of Canadian foreign trade. In the opinion of many, however, those days have gone forever, and the world will have to accept the present waste and misdirection of productive effort so long as it maintains the present system. Economic nationalism is part and parcel of capitalism.

CHIVALRY, by Rafael Sabatini. Mc-Clelland & Stewart Ltd., Toronto, 1935.
$2.00, 282pp.

AS in all things, so too in literature a period of dominance by extremists has enveloped us. On the one hand we are oppressed by lofty intellects, on the other we are seduced by the authors of trashy fiction. From his lofty heights, firmly seated on a cloud of pure aesthetic thought, James Joyce seems to leer down on us and mock the mere mortals who find him too difficult. Gertrude Stein with her tame pet, the "Stream of Consciousness," seems determined to outwit those who would like to grasp her thought. Those of us who enjoy reflective moments sometimes pause and think, "Is this literature or tripe?" Truthfully now, won't someone enlighten us—Gertrude Stein really a woman, or is she as we all too often suspect, merely an Attitude?"

On the other hand and equally as perturbing, is that army of authors, or better, "sentencearrangers" who have sacrificed their purity of soul at the shrine of Publicity and Circulation, for the usual three, or is it four, cents a word. Presses roar and sirens shriek—Big Industry is here! The Steam-roller of Progress must move on! The deluge of literature, trash and otherwise, continues. It is a new flood that threatens to envelop us.

Amid all this it is indeed a relief to pick up a book that has no pretensions. Mr. Sabatini makes no effort at lofty thought, nor does he prostitute his pen at the shrine of the great goddess Circulation. He is, purely and simply, a narrator—if he has tried to be anything else, certainly this reviewer has not noticed it. Someone has called him the modern Dumas. That, unfortunately, is an exaggeration. Neither is it right to class him with that other eminent historical-novel writer, Sir Walter Scott. Both these men are undoubtedly head and shoulders above this modern author. Mr. Sabatini either lacks, or does not care to employ, plots as elaborate and as carefully thought out as those of the aforementioned authors. To the literary mind, aside from his disinclination to discuss character, this is his great weakness. However, as far a Christmas dinner for its regular patrons.

The details of this will be announced later, but it will certainly be looked forward to by those who remember the Christmas dinners served last year.

May we again point out that the Union is YOUR building. It is up to you to make a success of it by giving it your patronage and wholehearted support.

as concerns the average reader, meaning both the reader and writer of this column, the author of "Chivalry" gains by this lack of involved plot. There is no tedium with Sabatini. He gives us a good variety—plenty of blood—much thunder—beautiful, if brim, heroics—and of course a chivalrous hero.
Add to that a plume (or box of candy) and a fireside, and what could be better?

"Chivalry" deals with sixteenth century Italy.
More specifically it deals with the loves, struggles and honour of a soldier of fortune, Colombo da Siena, or Colombo as he is more affectionately termed, is the youthful commander of the Company of the Dove, a mercenary army. As a result of his constant readiness to lend his sword to any cause that seemed to him the least bit chivalrous, he is ensnared by Eufemia di Sanli. A better name for her would have been Eufemia di Diabolo. Of course she is faithless and Colombo's ideal of illusions about women are shattered. Somewhat hardened by this experience he continues his triumphant career and lays low all his enemies—finally burying the right woman.

Really "Chivalry" is a stirring tale, movingly told. Not as good, in the opinion of the reviewer, as some of Sabatini's earlier works, such as Serranmonche the Kingmaker, or Captain Blood. It is nevertheless, an excellent diversion for an evening.
It is a good yarn, told by one who understands the art of story-telling, and as mentioned before, without pretension.

THE CRIMSON SIGN, by H. A. Cody.
McClelland & Stewart Ltd., Toronto, 1935.

THE story is set in the beautiful and danger-braght land of Acadia at the time when the British and French were at war. It is a tale of adventure and romance.

French raiders upon the New England coast capture the daughter of the English colonel in command of Fort Reliance. Her capture stirs up Pete King, leader of the League of the Crimson Sign, and they undertake to rescue her. Their emblem is a red feather worn in the cap and dyed with the blood of each member of the band.

The story relates how they carry out their purpose. Next to Pete King in the League is Grey Martell, son of the noted Boston fur-trader, John Martell. Helen Garland, the captive girl, is bethrothed to him and her capture stirs him to a high pitch of anxiety. The manner in which Pete King outwits the enemy sent against him makes exciting reading.

Italy and Its Economic Position

ONE of the most interesting yet probably the least publicized aspect of the present Italo-Ethiopian conflict, is the question of Italy's economic and financial position in the face of its military operations abroad. Can Italy finance this gigantic undertaking especially in view of hostility of financial interests abroad, and the application of sanctions? And for how long?

One feature of the Italian economy has definitely been in its favour in this respect. The Corporate State as presently organized is definitely elastic in nature, and largely freed from the rigidi-ties which characterize other national economies.
That is to say, adjustments in the cost structure can be quickly made to changes in the price structure, due to the high degree of centralization of industry under the Ministry of Corporations. Wages especially, and other cost items are very easily cut to suit domestic requirements, as even the most fervent supporters of Fascism are quick to admit.
In fact one may venture to say that the motif of the Fascist State is keep down wages to a minimum, and to make wage cuts easy to effect, in this way preserving for Italian capitalists a margin of profit which might otherwise have been seriously reduced. The dictatorial organization of the Corporate State is such as to facilitate these changes.

One of the first acts of foreign banking houses on the outbreak of the conflict with Ethiopia was suddenly to cut off all bank credits to Italy and reduce trade to purely cash transactions. This for the past three months has put an increasing pressure on the internal economy of the country. Despite this, industrial activity has been well maintained, especially in the case of those working for national defence. According to "press" dispatches, Italy is well supplied with raw materials and is using her technical equipment in such a way as to ensure the fullest utilization of her resources.

The Government has recently, by decree, limited the dividends of joint stock companies to 6% while levying on them a 10% tax deducted as the source. The fixed percentage of the legal cover has been suspended, and the bank rate raised. There has been a decline of gold holdings, these being chiefly used by the Government in settling arrears in Italy's commercial indebtedness. Further drains on the gold reserves are expected in the next few months.

Fortunately for Italy, on long-term account she is a creditor nation. Her indebtedness to the United States has been considerably reduced by the devaluation of the dollar, and has been more than offset by her creditor position with Germany, Austria, Hungary, Bulgaria and Greece. Then too we must not forget that Italy has taken over the foreign securities and credits of her citizens, which have given her a reserve of some five to seven million lire.

To carry on the extraordinary expenses of the war the Government has naturally had to resort to some heavy financing—the issue of bonds and increased taxation. The Government is issuing at 95 a new 5% consolidated loan; heavier excise duties and an upward revision of customs duties, a mileage tax on commercial motors, a 10% tax on dividends, have all been provided for.

As for the future, in face of world hostility, Italy will be forced to seek a greater and greater degree of self-sufficiency. This trend has been evident since the inception of the Totalitarian State; it will be even more pronounced in the future. The ira as a result, is becoming more and more of a national currency, and is being largely stabilized as to purchasing power at home.

The experience of the last war has shown that one country can fall back almost completely on its own resources and remain that way for a long period. Judging by reports from Italy, even though sanctions be applied, she should be able to keep going in her Ethiopian campaign for a long period.
In any case, sanctions will never be complete or adhered to by all the nations. It is true the national debt is steadily mounting, but the organization and the spirit of the people are such that a serious entrenchment on standards of living will be possible to keep things going.

Social Credit

I. Major Douglas

THE past few months have seen a remarkable display of interest on the part of the Canadian public in particular, in the topic of Social Credit. To the people of Alberta this word conjured up such glorious and rosy pictures that they returned the Social Credit Party to power in their recent elections with an overwhelming majority and a Government was set up under one William Aberhart, psalm-singing Bible teacher. To us in the East this remarkable swing to this latest of panaceas seems merely another manifestation of prairie madness; our banks have scoffed at Social Credit, though without especially good criticisms; while orthodox and even radical economists everywhere have vigorously attacked it, bringing to bear on it their entire intellectual equipment. Its fallacies have sung to the skies and its theories cav-illed at, ridiculed and opposed. Despite this, Social Credit still remains the most discussed topic on the Prairies with the possible exception of wheat, and everyone in Canada is eagerly looking forward to see the outcome of this, the first practical experiment, in the tenets of Social Credit.

The theory of Social Credit may be attributed to Major C. H. Douglas, a soldier, engineer, and everything else but, economist. After what he has termed an intensive study of our modern industrial structure, he reached the conclusion that the root of our trouble lay in a chronic deficiency of purchasing power. In other words, he contends, the present system does not distribute sufficient purchasing power to enable potential consumers to buy back all the goods which are produced at prices which cover the costs of production. As a result, prices will show an inevitable tendency to decline, leading to reduced profits and business stagnation. In short, there is never equality between consumers' purchasing power and the prices of goods. All we need is to give consumers, in the form of basic dividends, enough money to make up this deficiency. This money would be issued on the "credit of the nation" which is just as good as bank credit to Douglas. An era of unparalleled plenty would ensue and the millennium would appear.

The sentimental and emotional appeal of this doctrine is obvious. To the average man, the idea of giving him money for nothing has a terrific appeal, and especially since he understands so little about the theory of money. Then, too, Douglas' attack on the big financial interests finds a warm response in the bosom of the "small" man. The attack is in many ways justified, but unfortunately Douglas' attack is a confused and misplaced one. Failing to appreciate the real ills of our system, he falls back on one aspect—money—and as a result draws emphasis away from the Vics Tie Verdun 3-3 to Score Big Upset — Players Jubilant After Game — Tennant Stars in Goal — Defence Turn in Hard-checking Game to Halt Lafontaine Forwards — Crutchfield Scores Third McGill Goal — Gompille and McCaig Tally For Losers — McGill Tied For Second Place

By P. P.

DETERMINED not to be denied any longer, Bobby Bell's fighting band of Redmen crashed the winning column last night when they took a much improved Lafontaine six into camp by the score of 3-2. Two goals by Alex Duff and one by Gordie Crutchfield provided the necessary margin, one counter being registered in each of the periods. The game was played at the Forum and the second on the card, the first being a 3-3 result between Victorias and Verdun, with Kenny Farmer, former Redman, the individual star scoring all three of Vics goals.

Senior Basketball Squad Prepares For First Game

Play League or Exhibition Game on November 30

Red Defence Strong

The Red team displayed a very strong defence, but the forwards have not yet attained the form they are capable of. All of the front line brigade showed glimpses at regular intervals of their true form and if most of them come through the team will rank with the best in the league before many more games have been played. Dave Tennant turned in another fine game in the nets making several stops that looked like sure goals. Dave's average to date is a total of five goals in three games.

Wigle and Melkiejohn, the regular defencemen, stopped and floored the Lafontaine forwards with amazing consistency. There was little to choose between the forwards, with perhaps the first line of Crutchfield, Pidcock and Duff a little to the fore. Dickson, Crosby and Morse also showed up very well individually. Wilson and Gompille played a sterling game on the Lafontaine defence, the latter scoring a goal with only two seconds of the last frame left. McCaig, L. Lafontaine, Beliveau and Purdie were the best of the Lafontaine forwards.

Lafontaine Score First

The game started with Wigle and Melkiejohn in the rear and Crutchfield, Pidcock and Duff up in front. The Lafontaine squad started right in with a brisk attack, and after two and a half minutes of play a rush was made by defenceman Lee who coasted right in on Tennant and then passed to McCaig who put it into the open side of the net. After this both teams were skating fast but the combination of either side was not good enough to get them past the blue line.

About half way through the period Ellie made a dash from the defence and made a nice pass to Duff who coasted in from nowhere on the left wing and sank a hard shot behind goalie Provost who never stood a chance on the tally. The Redmen continued to apply the pressure and, after Wilson had received a penalty, hemmed the Blues inside their own blue line, missing several close shots. The period ended with Tennant making a splendid save of a fine shot by L. Lafontaine. Score: McGill 1; Lafontaine 1.

Neat Goal By Duff

Continuing where they had left off in the first frame the Red team went right to work and after two minutes of play took the lead for the first time. Captain Gordie Melkiejohn skated down the rink and shot a hard one at the goal-tender which was deflected to the side of the rink by the boards where Alex Duff was waiting. He returned it right away and it glanced off the surprised goalie's stick into the net. This was followed a few minutes later by a fine rush by Ellie who just missed scoring by inches.

At this stage in the game, McGill had complete command of the play and the forwards were continually surging round the nets. With a little more scoring punch when close in the score would have been much closer. Near the end of the period Crutchfield received a penalty but the onslaught of Bill Brosseau's boys was taken care of by Pidcock, Duff, Wigle and Melkiejohn. The Lafontaine six was considerably slowed up by the smashing body checks of the Red defence. End of second period: McGill 2; Lafontaine 1.

Last Period Exciting

The third session was by far the most exciting with both teams showing their best form of the evening. Paul Pidcock and Melkiejohn made fine rushes in succession both narrowly missing their mark. This was followed by a big scramble around the Red nets with Dave coming right out of his goal to avert a score and then a shot being taken on the empty net and just rolling past the post. This Lafontaine pressure continued when MacKay went off to serve a penalty for boarding.

Beliveau for Lafontaine replaced MacKay in the cooler and it was now McGill's turn to apply the pressure. The Redmen put on four forwards and stormed around their opponents goal until they were obliged to call a halt when Melkiejohn took a penalty. He was followed a few seconds later by Gompille. Both these men were back

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

By F. W. P.

The Basketball Situation

SEVERAL comments on the hitherto neglected basketball situation at McGill would seem to be in order at this time. We note with interest and pleasure the decision of the first squad to enter the senior section of the Montreal Basketball League for the first time in twelve years. Up till three years ago the second team represented the university in the senior series, but for the past two years the seconds have played in the Intermediate Section of the M.B.L. This decision means a big reason for the seniors, for in addition to their ten City League games they have a six-game intercollegiate schedule and a few tilts with American colleges.

In connection with this decision, it must be noted that it was made by the players themselves, not by the coach or manager. As such, it is the duty of every man on the squad to make a point of regular attendance at all practices as well as at games. In spite of this, one of the men about whom Coach Van Wagner intended to build many of his plays has turned in his equipment. He may have very good reasons for doing so, but we cannot believe that they are good enough to justify his action, which will undoubtedly weaken the team considerably.

The Line-up

GENE GORMLEY, the midsize forward who has been a thorn in the sides of opposing guards for the past two seasons, has been showing the way so far in the practices as team captain. Last year's defence is intact, Bob Brown and Marty Bowes, last year's regular defence, are the only other senior veterans back. From last season's seconds are Sam Greenblatt and Bruce Server, forwards, and Frank Corrigan and Rutherford, guards. The newcomers include Teahan, Jensen, de Martini, and Boyd. All these men are being retained by the coach in view of the heavy schedule ahead of the team.

Incidentally, the contribution of the Interclass League should not be overlooked. Usually passed over humorously, the class league has proved itself a successful training ground for talent with the choice of Teahan and Jensen, members of last year's powerful freshman Medicine outfit. Several who are slated for plenty of work with the seconds are also graduates of the class league ranks. These same seconds are coming along well, with the M.B.L. intermediate opener just a couple of weeks away. The squad will also play in the Intermediate Intercollegiate League. Fifteen men are being retained for the campaign, with all apparently being slated for action.

With The Gymnasts

REPORTS from the gymnast camp indicate that all is going smoothly. Coach Hay Finlay has uncovered a promising recruit in the person of Grant Donnelly, formerly of St. Andrew's, who should have little trouble making the first squad. Other new men with experience are Caron, Henry and Riordan. From last year's team, Hodgson, Walker, Beall and Copeland are swinging back into form. So that all in all, Hay and Finlay and assistants Ray Caron, George Dumbell, and Bob McCarthy may well be pardoned for looking into the future through a rose-coloured telescope.

"Y" Beat Seniors For Second Time in Rough Game — Juniors Show Good Form to Win on Goal by Rabinovitch — Shragovitch Gets Lone Senior Goal

McGILL'S Mermen emerged from the Y.M.H.A. Pool last night after an evening of mixed success. The Junior squad won out in a cleanly-fought, well-played game, by the score of 2-1. However, their Senior brothers did not fare so well in the nightcap, being repulsed by the score of 6-1. The first game was open, fast and smooth. The second game saw the Redmen submerged under the heavy weight and forceful play of a powerful Y.M.H.A. team. Luck seemed to be throwing its weight against the McGill seniors for their shots seemed to continually hit against cross-bars and uprights. The Juniors showed a team vastly improved in power and team play and came through with a well-earned victory.

Seniors Lose Toss

The first break against the Seniors came when McGill lost the toss and were forced to take the shallow end. The game started fast and furious with Tucker making an early break away to unleash a terrific shot which was partially stopped by Chuck Wayland. The ball bounced to the side and, through some freak of fate, tricked over the line into the goal for a first score against McGill. The play began to get rough with a number of men on either side being swamped under the water. No one was exactly drowned but the 250 pound bantam weight of the "Y" team did much to dampen the ardour of the Redmen.

The speed of the game was sustained however with McGill getting in for a couple of dangerous thrusts which inadvertently bumped into the posts. Feinholz got the ball at his own defence, swam up the side of the pool and from close in let a high one go to give Wayland no chance to save. The play, if anything, became a mawling melee and a splashing spree. Nevertheless, the fundamental idea to score was back of all the excitement and Munro Bourne got away for a lovely shot which unfortunately just nicked the post and glanced off. Bob Freeman, playing for the first time this year but a stalwart in past years, got two fine shots away both of which suffered a somewhat similar fate to Bourne's.

Half-Time Score

The squads kept at it hammer and tongs, with the Redmen forcing the half ended 2-0 in favour of Y.M.H.A. ended 2-0 in favour of Y.M.H.A.

The change of ends proved disastrous to McGill. McGill's defence of the deep end did not prove very successful, for soon after the start of the second session Feinholz scored on a fine combination effort. Shragovitch took the ball a moment later and set off at full speed, let fly a fast shot, but it went over the nets. At 3-0 the Redmen were feeling down, both in spirits and in reality. Shragovitch went off again helter-skelter and bounced a fine shot off the head of Captain, a "Y" defenceman, for McGill's first score. The score stood at 3-1 and McGill perked up slightly. Right after the next centre-off.

Sports Correspondence

Sports Editor,

Dear Sir,—

In Monday's edition of the Daily, a schedule of hockey games for which Student Coupons are acceptable for admission, was published. A total of seven games in all has been decided upon by the Athletic Board, four of which are Intercollegiate Championship and Challenge games; the remaining three are Senior Group matches. The number of these City League contests has been limited to three, for the following reasons:

- (1) There are 12 scheduled games for each team; on the night of each, there are four teams competing; this allows each team but three, strictly speaking, "home" games.
- (2) For each coupon received as admission, the Athletic Board must pay to the rink authorities the sum of 25 cents. With the usual student attendance, the total payment is always far in excess of the receipts for that game, since the net proceeds for the evening are divided among four clubs. Last season the Athletic Board paid over $600 for Student Coupon admission, and for this reason the number of such really non-intercollegiate games must be limited.

The remaining games are all intercollegiate matches; the Harvard-McGill date has been changed from the usual pre-Christmas time until later in the season when, it is hoped, a larger attendance will be possible.

Hockey

The following games are home games at which student coupons will be honoured:

- Dec. 4—Royals vs. McGill.
- Dec. 13—Yale vs. McGill.
- Jan. 24—McGill vs. Verdun.
- Feb. 7—McGill vs. Toronto.
- Feb. 22—McGill vs. Harvard.
- Feb. 28—Queen's vs. McGill.

Sohmer sent a long shot from his own end of the pool which must have caught Wayland napping. The ball slid into the corner for the fourth goal. Oshitzer, the "Y's" 250 pounder, came through the McGill squad to score a fine solo effort, thus making it 5-1. With less than a minute to go some fine combination brought the ball up to the deep end again and Feinholz got his third of the evening and Y.M.H.A.'s sixth. McGill kept pressing, Elliott just missing a score. The game ended with the McGill men bombarding the "Y" goals but to no avail.

The Junior game, first on the programme, started off with McGill in the deep end. The Junior Reds forced the play from the beginning and showed some fine work. However, they could not penetrate the Y.M.H.A. goal during the first period. The play was fast, going from end to end of the pool. Suddenly Selkowitz broke away, was not checked, and came right in on Gilmour, giving him no chance to save. The "Y" team started to apply the pressure after this tally and Rosetok sent a steaming long shot down which Gilmour handled very nicely to keep from the goals. The front line of the "Y," continually repulsed by the steady work of the defence, sent a bombardment of long shots, but they availed nothing.

McGill Attacks

However, an offence was required to win the game for McGill so they started a counter-attack. The front line started to function again and Savage, receiving some passes, tried his fast flipping shots which had the "Y" goalie fooled but couldn't move the impenetrable posts. Selkowitz brought the play back to McGill's end, wormed his way close in and seemed about to duplicate his first score. However, Gilmour outgassed him this time to make a sensational save. The period ended with no further score and little more excitement. Y.M.H.A. still led 1-0.

The second half saw the "Y" team in the deep-end, with their hands full. The Redmen unleashed a terrific at-

Practice Yesterday

A practice was held yesterday at the Montreal High Gym, and most of the players out are likely to be carried with the teams this year. The long schedule will necessitate a large lineup. Among those out yesterday were Gormley, Bowes, Seriver, Brown Rutherford, Greenblatt, Tenham, Jensen, de Martini, Boyd, Wigdor.

Rabinovitch Scores

The score this knotted at 1-1. McGill were resolved to take the lead. Their forcefulness subsided for a while, but no dangerous "Y" thrusts threatened their tie. Soon the Red mermen came to with a return to their form earlier in the period. The pressure was turned on and Rabinovitch scored on a well-timed shot from centre, beating the goalie all the way for the score. McGill were in the lead 2-1.

Cohen of the Y.M.H.A. team came close to tying that up once more when he had only Gilmour to beat, but Gilmour thwarted him to make another fine stop. The play was carried by McGill once again and the end found them comfortably ahead 2-1.

Seniors Play Varsity Soon

The Junior game was a model game and satisfactory in every detail from a McGill point of view. The Seniors, though unsuccessful, played fine polo and deserved a better fate. They are shaping up well for the Intercollegiate game against Toronto on December 14.

This Troubled World

real line of reform, which might otherwise be pursued.

To give a complete analysis of the fallacies of the Douglas doctrine would take too much space. We must confine ourselves to a few aspects. Douglas divides the payments of each factory into two classes: (a) payments which include wages, dividends, salaries, etc.; and (b) payments which cover bank charges, payments for raw materials, machinery, etc. To make business profitable, the individual producer must charge a price at least equal to (a + b), which are his costs. But, says Douglas, only an amount equal to (a) has been distributed to consumers, and obviously (a) cannot buy (a + b). The fallacy here is obvious. The money which is expended on raw materials, machinery, etc., is just as effective purchasing power as the (a) payments, and comes into the hands of consumers as well as they do. It is equally obvious that the (b) payments are themselves broken up into (a + b) payments and so on.

Douglas' confusion arises here from his failure to distinguish between producers' goods (raw materials, machinery, semi-finished goods, etc.) and consumers' or finished goods. He seems to think that consumers must be given enough money to buy back all producers' and consumers' goods, whereas actually all they need (and actually get) is enough to buy back the consumers' goods. It is not necessary for consumers to get money to buy raw materials, machinery, etc., because these ultimately appear in the shape of finished goods which they need. A single example will suffice. A farmer grows wheat which let us say costs him $5; he sells this to a miller who gives him the $5, and who in turn, to turn it into flour (and that it costs him $5. He will thus sell the flour to the baker for $10, who in turning it into bread finds it costs him $5 more. He sells the bread for $15, and thus gets $5 for himself. The farmer has $5, so has the miller and baker. In other words, there is sufficient purchasing power on the market to buy the bread. Consumers did not need enough to buy the wheat, flour and bread, but only the bread. If we turn from this isolated example to the mass of products as a whole, we can see that there is no such deficiency of money as Major Douglas envisions.

Next week we shall endeavour to explain the particular theory of Social Credit which Mr. Aberhart holds, what he proposes to do, and what his chances are for success.

Correspondence

Editor, McGill Daily

Dear Sir:

Inspection of the plans of the projected McGill gymnasium at the Produced-In-Canada exposition in the Sun Life Building, reveals that the salient feature of the building is the Armoury.
Is this a part of the Student Peace Movement I've been hearing about?
Moreover, there is no space labelled "gymnasium," nor does there seem to be a track. In its place is a gallery marked "Bullpen." Probably an old military term.

Yours etc.,

THIRTY-TWO.

The Editor,
McGill Daily.
Dear Sir:

As chairman of the McGill division of the Catholic Charities Campaign, I should like to congratulate publicly my committee and workers, who gave so willingly of their time and effort to secure a return of 200% of the desired objective.

At the same time I want to thank the students and especially the professors, without whose support the campaign could not have succeeded, for their generous contributions.

Finally, I want to thank you, sir, for the space you have allowed the campaign in your paper for publicity and editorials.

BRETE NOWLAN.

The Editor,
McGill Daily.
Dear Sir:

At last the Daily has attained the heights of humour which it has long sought!

It was indeed humorous to learn that there were two lines of students waiting to register for pre-medical and pre-business courses. I almost burst my sides when I read that Prof. Asher Christensen was strolling past these two lines. Most humorous!!! It was also very humorous to learn that all this humour took place at the University of Minnesota, a very, very humorous locale.

It certainly is humorous, though, that several of the McGill students couldn't appreciate the humour of it all! Perhaps, for their benefit, you could reprint the whole humorous story, on page one of tomorrow's Daily. Surely you can't let this very, very humorous story pass by when at least 98% of the students at McGill haven't seen it, or at least haven't appreciated the very, very, very humorous paragraphs.

I'm still laughing — ha! ha!

E.H.P.

A small voice from the end of the "pre-medicine line" piped a call to Prof. Christensen.

"Hi, mister," the frosh said, "which is the longest line?"
The professor considered. "I would say your line is about 25 feet longer," Christensen answered. "Okay," the boy said, stepping out of the queue, "I'm a business man already." And he registered for pre-business.
